The Highs and Lows of Being a Football Player

Goals/Objectives:

Students will:

- Students will become familiar with a football players initial stance and how they correlate to the movement levels, high, medium and low.

National Standards: 2-Movement Concepts, Principles, Strategies and Tactics; 3-Physical Activity; 4-Physical Fitness; 6-ValuesPhysical Activity

Methods/Procedures:

- Students will be asked to discuss and list the strengths and characteristics of a football player's initial or beginning stance and how they correlate to the three basic levels of movement high, medium, and low.
- The Three Basic Stances by Position
 - * Two-Point Stance (High to Medium Level): 2 feet touching the ground
 - » quarterbacks, running backs, receivers, linebackers, defensive backs and some defensive lineman
 - » This offers the immediate benefit of greater vision of the entire field it also allows for greater quickness and speed to move in any direction.
 - * Three-Point Stance (Medium to Low Level): 1 hand and 2 feet touching the ground
 - » linemen, running backs, and tight ends
 - » The main benefit of a three point stance is that it brings a player's center of gravity lower which allows for greater balance and quicker movement.
 - * Four-Point Stance (Low Level): 2 hands and 2 feet touching the ground
 - » defensive lineman
 - » This stance allows players to spread both hands and feet at a lower and wider level. Their weight is evenly distributed and this allows a player to launch forward quicker.

Materials:

- Notepad/paper and pencil/pen
- Blackboard or dry mark board
- Pictures or video demonstrations of stances
- Access to computer

Assessment:

- Students will be assessed on their participation in activities.
